OPINION AND COMMENT

The University is opening in a way so unusual that it is difficult to describe the many changes in detail, or to indicate the departures from former traditions. The catalogue has been discarded as a general guide to the entering students. The campus has become a government camp, the dormitories are barracks, the dining hall, a mess hall. The Y. M. C. A. has assumed the functions of a "Y" hut, and the general program of the University conforms to strict military requirements. In all of the change, however, one fact stands out clearly: the University is thoroughly aligned with those forces which have as their object the winning of the war, and to that end, along with the Students' Army Training Corps of 400 or more colleges and universities, it is devoting its entire energy. Formerly its function has been to train men for professional and educational activities. Its first duty now is to help bring the war to a speedy end and to prepare leaders for the reconstruction which will follow.

In taking over the universities and colleges of America for this special purpose, the government has made complete the transition begun in the University immediately after war was declared. In its great task of developing officer material, it has made use of the plant, equipment, and faculties of the one American institution which has shown itself most capable of producing this desired product. In doing this, it has saved the machinery of the colleges and is utilizing it to its own special ends. The whole process is one which calls forth admiration of every one and is in keeping with the expectation that America will apply intelligent methods in the handling of all of her mammoth war undertakings.

As indicated, swift changes have taken place, and it is but natural to expect that others will quickly follow. The one significant fact will remain, however, that the University has always trained men for service for the State and Nation, and in this moment its purpose will not be found different from that of the past. It accepts the challenge given it by the government, and the alumni can confidently expect that it will function true to form. If evidence of this is desired, a visit to the campus will furnish it in convincing completeness.

There has been more or less misapprehension on the part of alumni (as indicated for example in the State press by Judge Clark and Captain Edmund Jones) to the effect that the draft registrants between 18 and 20 years old now being enrolled in the S. A. T. C. units in North Carolina colleges are escaping the democratic application of the Selective Service Act and consequently form a privileged class. In order to clear up this misapprehension THE REVIEW directs the attention of the alumni to the article which appears elsewhere in this issue describing the plan of operation under the S. A. T. C., and makes the following comments:

STATUS OF THE S. A. T. C. STUDENT

1. No 18 or 20 year-old student is admitted to the S. A. T. C. (of the Collegiate Section, such as that at Carolina) unless he is a draft registrant, is physically fit, and has a minimum of 12 entrance units obtained from a standard high school.

2. By entering college, and thereby entering the S. A. T. C., he becomes on October 1st a soldier in the United States Army with the status and pay of a private, is subject to military control and any demand the War Department may make upon him.

3. Consequently, instead of escaping or postponing service, he puts himself into it before non-collegiate registrants (who await the call of their local boards) and by so doing hastens the completion of his training in this country before going overseas.

4. He puts himself immediately at the service of the War Department which trains him and determines what service he is best fitted for. Having determined this, he may be ordered to report to, (a) an officers' training corps, (b) a non-commissioned officers' training school, (c) a depot brigade, or, (d) to continue in either a collegiate or vocational section of the S. A. T. C., for such technical or special training as the needs of the service require.

5. Unless he enters college and thus the S. A. T. C. (which is in reality a training and distributing camp), he will wait his call and be sent by his local board to a depot brigade or cantonment by which, after being tried out, he may be transferred to any of the places mentioned in a, b, c, or d above. In this way his entrance into the service is simply delayed from 1 to 6 months or more, and after he has finally entered service, he may find himself transferred to a S. A. T. C. unit of the collegiate grade.

6. The significant fact is this: the S. A. T. C. unit at Chapel Hill is a War Department camp just as much so as Camp Jackson, the only difference being that the 18 to 20 year-old registrant could enter this unit on October 1st, while he could not enter Camp Jackson until he was sent. It is the story of the first Oglethorpe over again. Those who seemingly were qualified for officers' positions responded to the call in May, 1917, and most of them are in France to-day. Others waited their turn in the draft and through its sifting processes are (many of them) still receiving their training and just now reaching destinations for which they were fitted.

7. It is also to be noted that the courses for the S. A. T. C. students are arranged upon a 12-weeks basis for the 20 year-olds, a 24-weeks for the 19 year-olds, and that instruction for the 18 year-olds is to be so abridged that they may complete it and the necessary supplementary training required elsewhere and then be in in France in the one-year period which the War Department has indicated it will allow to elapse before any of the 18 year-old men are sent overseas.

For the first time in the history of the University the Senior class returns to the campus to find itself grouped according to the age of its members rather than to the number of years it has spent in college, and to be transferred from this military camp to others probably within the next three months. Participation in normal campus activities for the class is at an end as the military rule here is no whit different from that of the camp or cantonment, except in the case of such members of the University as do not belong to the S. A. T. C.

Although this is true, THE REVIEW believes that there is a very important work for the members of 1919 to carry through, even though they may no longer be grouped together in one unit as formerly. In them the spirit of democracy and service which has distinguished Carolina is best conserved, and it is for them to pass this on to their comrades. They constitute the vital point of contact between the past and the future. In order that the fine traditions of the University may be transmitted to the new order, 1919 must utilize its opportunity to the full. The alumni confidently look to 1919 for this service.

That many sons of Carolina were to pay the supreme price for their devotion to justice and liberty was inevitable. Already the list is considerable, and each week in the future it will grow. Similarly, the total of wounded or missing; for the end is not yet, and Carolina men will be in the front of the fray until the end. And, similarly, the awards of honor for bravery in action may be counted on to mount.

THE REVIEW carries elsewhere the Roll of Honor. It doesn't single out for special praise any of the list. For the memory of Quincy Mills and David Graham and John Manning Battle and their fallen comrades is sacred to Alma Mater. In the hour that their country called them they answered, and in answering they died not merely for their country but for mankind and for all the things of worth which other men live for and will live and die for in the generations to come.

October Twelfth, 1918, will find the ranks of the local alumni associations greatly depleted by members in service. But this should not deter the members who remain from planning for the annual meeting and carrying out a purposeful program. There is one special duty which should receive attention by all such meetings—the record of the members in service should be carefully compiled, and an accurate copy of it, together with a report of the meeting, should be sent to THE REVIEW. The office of Alumni Secretary of the General Association is being filled in absentia by Mr. Rankin, and for that reason THE REVIEW calls upon the local association to act in this matter.

THE REVIEW makes the further suggestion that when the local secretary sends in the complete list he also send a check to cover a subscription for each name in the list! Keep the home fires burning!

THE REVIEW has received two complaints during the summer to the effect that it does not give sufficient attention to the activities of alumni who are in service in the Navy. And, it must be confessed, that the criticism is true.

This fact, however, is due to no intention on the part of THE REVIEW, but to its difficulty in securing information. In the case of men in the Army, notices constantly appear in the newspapers about them and every week an alumnus fresh from camp with direct information about Carolina men is back on the Hill. But not so with the men in the Navy. They put to sea, and then a mantle of silence falls over them as if they were "spurlös versenkt".

IT'S UP TO YOU

All of which prompts THE REVIEW to urge every alumnus, whether in the service or out, to assist it in keeping Carolina's record full and complete. It is up to the alumni to assist in this highly important particular. Short items concerning the whereabouts of Carolina men and their work will be appreciated.

From a letter written by A. H. Bahson, of Winston-Salem, THE REVIEW excerpts a suggestion which it passes on to the alumni for whatever it may be worth. "Enclosed you will find a check for $5 to cover renewal of my subscription and subscription of some of our boys in France. Use it as you see fit. Do not waste postage by acknowledging."

SUGGESTION

CAROLINA ESTABLISHES S. A. T. C. UNIT

The Daily Schedule of the Campus is that of a Government Camp

Through the operation of General Order 79 issued by the War Department on August 24th, 1918, the University is operating today, in the main, as a military camp, of which the Students' Army Training Corps unit is the center.

As has been explained by press dispatches and special articles, the S. A. T. C. has been established in about 400 American universities and colleges by order of President Wilson under authority of the Selective Service Act of May 18, 1917. It is administered by the War Department through the Committee on Education and Special Training, assisted by an Advisory Education Board, together with Educational Directors, Regional Directors, and Special Advisors.

Object of S. A. T. C.

The object of establishing the S. A. T. C. is to utilize effectively the plant, equipment, and organization of the universities and colleges for selecting and training officers and technical experts for service in the existing emergency. By next spring the War Department will need approximately 200,000 officers and it looks to the college campus for a large per cent of them.

S. A. T. C. Regulations

Eligibility in the S. A. T. C. is limited to registrants, students having become eighteen after September 12th being debarred until they become registrants at such future date as may be announced by the War Department. After October 15 those registered before September 12 may be inducted. Applications should be made direct to registrant's local board. Under the selective service regulations, which follow in abridged form for the information of the alumni, only those who are physically fit to perform full or limited military duty and who can offer a minimum of 12 units from a standard high school or preparatory school or who have equivalent educational qualifications, can be admitted to units in the collegiate section.

Upon admission to the S. A. T. C. a registrant becomes a soldier, with rank and pay of a private in the Army of the United States; as such, he is placed on active duty status, and is subject to military law and military discipline at all times.

From time to time, in accordance with the needs of the service and qualifications of the individual, it will be the policy of the Government to assign members of the S. A. T. C. to (a) an officers' training corps, (b) a non-commissioned officers' training school, (c) a depot brigade, (d) to continue in certain cases in either a collegiate or vocational section of the S. A. T. C. for such technical or special training as the needs of the service require.

Subjects Required in S. A. T. C.

The instruction will be partly military and partly in allied subjects that have a value as a means of training officers and experts to meet the needs of the service. The allied subjects will be ordinarily selected from the following: English, French, German, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Geology, Topography and Map Making, Meteorology, Astronomy, Hygiene, Sanitation, Mechanical and Free Hand Drawing, Descriptive Geography, Accounting, History, Surveying, Economics, International Law, Government, Psychology.

The program of study in allied subjects must include a course or courses on the underlying issues of the war, with not more than three hours per week in lectures and recitations. This war issues course will touch the fields of History, Government, Economics, Philosophy, Modern Literature, and English Composition.

While the study of any of the subjects set forth above should be useful as a part of the training of future officers, the contents of the course and methods of instruction will in all cases determine the acceptance of the subjects as well as the amount of credit to be assigned to it as an allied military subject.

University Meets Requirements

Upon this basis the University has converted the campus into a camp, the dormitories into barracks, the dining hall into a mess hall, and every student inducted into the S. A. T. C. is a soldier under the direct command of Lieut. Col. G. W. S. Stevens and members of his military staff. The faculty, operating under the co-ordinate educational branch of the service, of which President McLauren, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology is Director and President Graham Regional Director for the South Atlantic States, has reorganized its work to conform to the above requirements and is offering courses in keeping with the purpose of the War Department.

Courses Follow New Lines

In planning the courses for the Corps the faculty has had to follow new lines. Former senior, junior, sophomore and freshman groups have been replaced by groups for the 20 year-olds, the 19 year-olds, the 18 year-olds, and the non-S. A. T. C. students. The 19 and 18 year-old groups in the S. A. T. C. have also had to be further divided into new and former students.

Every student in the S. A. T. C. is (with a slight reduction in the case of engineering and medical students) required to take 11 clock hours of military training and three recitation hours in the study of the issues involved in the war. The remaining 11 or 12 recitation hours are taken from a list of restricted electives from the subjects indicated above.

In the case of the 20 year-old group (both former and new students), a 12-weeks course is provided in which the training is intensive and is restricted to immediately essential subjects such as French, German, Topography and Map Making, Accounting, Sanitation and Hygiene, Gas and Airplane Engines, Trigonometry, Surveying, Practical Electricity, Military Mathematics, Radio, etc.

For the 19 year-old group a 24-weeks course is provided; for the 18 year-old group a 36-weeks course. Both groups are permitted to select from a larger list of electives than the 20 year-old group can select from, and within each of the two respective groups the choice of electives open to former students is greater than that to new students. In a large per cent of the courses recitations are held five or six hours per week and the study is consequently very intensive. For freshmen not in the S. A. T. C. a course quite similar to the regular freshman course is provided, while advanced students not in the corps are taking such courses as instructors can give whose whole time is not employed in giving the required courses.

Further Regulations

All students belonging to the corps are quartered in the dormitories (now called barracks) and are fed at Swain (the mess) Hall and are under strict military discipline. All other students room and get their meals off the campus. Such as take voluntary training are allowed to wear uniforms (with special distinguishing mark) for part time.

Under the new regulations the University year is divided into four quarters of approximately twelve weeks each. All courses are to conform to this arrangement. Final reports will be recorded quarterly on the basis of term standing and examinations, and a three-hour course for one quarter is the equivalent of one hour of college credit. In case any S. A. T. C. course is not taken by more than ten students it may be omitted.

Vocational and Collegiate Sections Explained

Under the plan of organization, two sections of the S. A. T. C. have been provided—the Vocational and the Collegiate. The former is for the training of registrants (who have only a grammar school education) in practical technical subjects such as telegraphy, blacksmithing, etc. The latter is, as already indicated for the training of registrants (who have 12 standard entrance units) as officers. The University unit belongs to the Collegiate section.

Marine and Naval Units Authorized

In addition to the S. A. T. C. unit, the University has been designated as one of the 12 institutions in which a marine section of the S. A. T. C. is to be established. The University's quota is 100, or six and two-third per cent of the total number of students, 1,500, authorized under this organization in the United States. A marine officer and non-commissioned officers have been detailed to this institution for the purpose of organizing and instructing such men as may voluntarily apply for induction.

It has also been designated as center for establishing a Naval Section of the S. A. T. C., with a quota of 50 men.

Daily Schedule

In carrying out this military program the following daily schedule is adhered to: 6:00 A. M. First Call; 6:15 Reveille; 6:30 Breakfast; 7:15 Assembly (Physical Exercise); 8:00-12:15 Academic Work; 12:30 Dinner; 1:30-2:30 Academic Work (Except Saturday); 1:30 (Saturday) Military Instruction; 2:35-3:35 (Mon. Wed. Fri.) Academic Work, and (Tues. Thur. and Sat.) Military Instruction; 4:00 Military Instruction; 6:00 Retreat; 6:15 Supper; 7:30 Study Call; 10:00 Taps.

FORTY-EIGHT WIN COMMISSIONS

Carolina Men Attend Summer Camp at Plattsburg

One hundred and twenty-two Carolina men attended the Plattsburg Camp on Lake Champlain this past summer. The course of training extending through a period of six weeks, August first to September 16th, was marked by a wonderful spirit of co-operation and adaptability to the hard routine tasks. No complaints were heard from any of the 3,500 to 4,000 college men attending the camp. Practically every college in the country was represented.

The following men received their commissions as second lieutenants:

W. B. Anderson, W. P. Andrews, S. B. Allen, R. M. Biddle, R. W. Boling, Grimes Bylerly, F. C. Cochrane, A. J. Cummings, C. R. Cunningham, W. R. Cuthbertson, F. J. Cohn, J. E. Daniel, M. O. Dickerson, J. H. Erwin, Jr., Allen Fields, L. E. Fields, T. A. Graham, J. J. Hankins, L. H. Hodges, A. T. Johnson, T. S. Kittrell, E. S. Lindsey, W. D. McMillan, 3d, A. H. Martin, W. E. Price, M. H. Patterson, W. N. Poindexter, F. O. Ray, P. J. Ranson, S. F. Ravenel, E. M. Robertson, J. D. Shaw, R. E. Smith, H. M. Taylor, W. E. Thompson, C. R. Toy, F. W. Turnbull, O. B. Welch, H. V. P. Wilson, Jr., R. H. Wilson, A. B. Wright, J. B. Yokely, W. A. Blount, J. C. Bynum, W. W. Eagle, T. E. Rondthaler, C. L. Vogler, Donnel Van Noppen.

Several honors and distinctions fell to Carolina men during the course of the camp. Professor T. F. Hickerson was selected to give lectures on map work to his company. Adjutant J. V. Whitfield and Jeff Bynum were picked to take a special course in the Adjutants' School. Three Carolina men, S. F. Ravenel, Leo Harvey, and J. J. Hankins, were in a platoon of 42 selected for a special exhibition drill for visiting college presidents. Three Carolina men were also selected for special instruction at a small arms school at Camp Perry, Ohio.

The course of instruction was varied, consisting of setting-up exercises, bayonet drill, bombing, and close and extended order drill, with special emphasis on the latter. All the new formations being used on the western front were taught, seventy-five per cent of the instructors having seen service overseas. Special classes in bayonet practice and in the adjutants' school were a feature. The day's work began at 5:30 and taps were sounded at 10:00 P. M. Everyone had to take a turn on the range, go through guard duty, and go on kitchen police. Each man had full army equipment. The camp course ended with a three days' hike covering about 40 miles, fighting taking place every bit of the way.

The following Carolina men attended the camp:

Anderson, W. B., Haw River; Andrews, W. H., Tarboro; Andrews, W. P., Charlotte; Allen, S. B., Weldon; Armfield, B. M., Asheboro; Aycock, J. L., Raleigh; Bencini, R. B., High Point; Biddle, R. ## LETTERS FROM THE FRONT

CONCERNING JOHN MANNING BATTLE, 1911

Lieut. M. G. C., 23d Inf., A. E. F.

(In a letter from First Lieut. Parker Vanamee, 23rd Infantry to Mr. Gaston Battle, City Point, Virginia)

On the night of July 19-20, Lieutenant John Manning Battle, with twenty-six other members of his command, was struck by a 350 millimeter shell and died on the way back to the hospital. The column, which was being relieved at the front, had run into a gas area, had adjusted the masks, and while on the way to the rear, suffered twenty-six casualties as the result of the explosion.—EDITOR.

Lieut. Malloy was in command of the platoon which suffered practically all of the casualties, and was one of the few men unhurt. He immediately started to care for the wounded and soon found Jack lying in the road. "Just move me to the side of the road, Joe, and care for the men, first," was all he asked for himself. It was not over twenty minutes from the time the shell struck before the stretcher bearers—men from my platoon—brought Jack down (the last man) to the ambulance I was loading.

To minimize the fact that he was suffering would be to minimize his splendid courage. "Hello, Van," he greeted me when I came over to his stretcher, prepared to load him in the ambulance. "Well, they got me at last."

I asked him if he was badly hurt and he said, "Yes, I'm afraid I'm done for, hit in the stomach and back. Are all the men looked after?" I assured him that he was the last man. "That's good," he replied, "Give me a cigarette and put me in."

Just as gently as we could we put him in the ambulance. He never winced or made a sound, just puffed slowly at his cigarette and went off with a "Goodbye, old man, many thanks."

May I say, Sir, that you had a son to be proud of. Under fire he was the coolest, bravest man any of us had ever seen. Wounded and suffering, his fortitude and unselfishness was splendid. He was every inch a soldier, a gentleman, and a man, and the idol of all those who served under and with him.

By MAJOR E. A. ABERNETHY, 1906

Surgeon M. R. C. 78th Division

In a letter to Mrs. Abernethy, August 1918)

Haven't been able to write to you for several days as I have been on the move, and today have been out all day with the ambulance companies. Have had two excellent meals with Australian rabbits at both. There are shipped here drawn, but not skinned and are excellent. We have an abundance to eat and the French are good to us. I am now quartered with the curate and my billet is No. 13. Isn't that fine? Have lost both of my pens. McDonald has just come in and loaned me his.

I don't know if I am permitted to tell you, but here goes. We were bombed out in the most systematic and worst bombing expedition the Boche has pulled off, and I know what fear is. The terror. I have been shelled, have been gassed, have been machine gunned—everything but the bayonet, and have been in many raids, but I saw red and felt that the end had come. The concert lasted from 9:30 until 2:30 and there were many encores. He came over in large planes and dropped from 28 to 43 bombs. The correct number I do not know, and it was the most horrible experience I shall ever have. I stood against an iron fence and heard the swish of a bomb which I knew was going to hit me, and knew fear—not cowardice, but the certainty of death, and when the bomb did not hit me, the fact brought me back. I did not lose my head and there was no shock. It came down with a horrible swish as it tore through the air and the explosion tore all the windows out and knocked us backward. I struck the fence. After one of them had dropped all his bombs and while his enormous bulk was fastened in the beams he showed his contempt by dropping flares that lighted up everything and turned his machine guns loose on every shadow and for five hours it was the same, with shrapnel from our own guns going like rain all over us. And what damage did he do? None! Instead of putting the fear into our souls, he put the Hate of Hell and made us more determined to see that we gave it to him.

I am sorry I can't give you more details—the number killed and injured does not matter. The military damage is all that counts and he did absolutely none. The next day one of them came over to photograph the damage and did not go home. But we moved. It is said by men who have played all the game for four years to have been the most intense raid yet—a last dying effort. He has at last been thrown on the defense and his defeat is absolutely certain. The next day I went about my work as if nothing had happened. It was a horrible nightmare, and I shall carry the memory of it to my grave, but it did not "get my goat" and I am as usual. John was not in it.

By J. A. CAPPS, 1917

American Y. M. C. A., 12 Rue d'Aguesseau, Paris

(In a letter to President Graham dated June 22)

After two weeks at Camp Jackson, which seemed like a second Carolina—there being hundreds of Carolina men there—I started to France. There were two hundred and twelve "Y" men in my party. Some were left in England, thirty or more have gone to Italy, others have been sent to parts in Southern France, and about twenty-five of us are waiting here a few days before going to the front. I am happy to be one of that lucky number. I am going to a place where once stood a beautiful city, no whole house is left.

Our trip over was full of rich experiences—for three days there was a fog that made it impossible to see more than thirty yards from the boat; then two days storm. Every one was required to take his turn at watch and sleep on deck with his life belt for a pillow. About three days off the coast of Ireland a sub stuck his nose out of the water, and by so doing caused himself and partner to get destroyed.

We found no excitement in London, where we spent three days, except that everybody has one object in mind—Win the war! Women are working with all the force they have, there are no young men in England—girls drive the taxis, run the busses, the elevators, the trams, till every inch of tillable soil and in fact do everything that we usually think of as man's work. The very same can be said of France with a little emphasis. Victory is the only result that can follow such a spirit.

Can you think of London without lights? No? Then what about Paris? Hardly a light can be seen in the streets of Paris tonight. I am in Hotel D' Iena near Tour Eiffel and it is 9:30 P. M., yet I cannot hear the sound of a car or a voice anywhere. It is as quiet here now as the Carolina campus at 3:00 A. M. It is not so much that the people fear an air raid.

Don't think for one minute that the French people are down hearted. They are more optimistic than the Americans at home. Though they cannot count the cost, they are absolutely certain of a final victory. Their appreciation of the American soldier is beautiful. Almost everyone I have talked with has told me that our marines saved Paris.

I think my class gift was due this June. I do not remember the amount, but will send it in as soon as I can learn.

With love to Carolina, and those who represent her ideals.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO ALUMNI

A late order of the War Department contains the following information:

Entrance to the Students Army Training Corps is open to registrants of September 12 between the ages of 18 and 45. After October 15 those registered before September 12 may be inducted. Applications in the first case should be made direct to the University; in the second case to registrant's local board.

LIEUTENANT HARRIS INTERNED IN HOLLAND

Lieutenant Regan Harris, '17, who left the University for the first training camp at Fort Oglethorpe, was interned in Holland in mid-August as the result of an accident to his airplane which caused him to land in Dutch territory. After leaving Oglethorpe Lieutenant Harris joined the Royal Flying Corps in Canada. Later he went to Texas as an instructor in aviation and from there to England where he joined the Royal Air force. He has been in France for three months. His machine was hit by a piece of shell from an "Archie" while flying back of the German lines. Being unable to reach his own line he did the next best thing and landed upon the island of Zeeland where he was interned by Dutch officials.

COMPILING WAR RECORDS

At some later date in the year, THE REVIEW wishes to publish in as complete form as possible the war service record of the University. In order that this may be complete, it is desired that every alumnus in service will give full information as to his rank and the unit to which he belongs. It is also desired that civilians who have engaged in important service shall also give detailed information concerning themselves.

In complying with this request, the alumni will please conform to the outline given below, which has been adopted by the Association of Alumni Secretaries of American colleges and universities. It is only by following strictly this suggested outline that correct comparative statistics as to the service of various universities can be correctly arrived at. In several recent publications of comparative statistics, the University has suffered by reason of the fact that so few of the alumni have given information concerning themselves, and only those who have been engaged in active military service. It will be noted that information is desired concerning all those who are engaged in Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and other special fields of civilian service.

I. Army (a) Commissioned officers; (b) Non-Commissioned officers; (c) Enlisted men (the line being drawn to include the men who are wearing the uniform of the U. S. Army and eliminating all others).

II. Navy (a) Commissioned officers (b) Non-commissioned officers; (c) Enlisted men; (d) Marines (the line being drawn to include the men who are wearing the uniform of the U. S. Navy and eliminating all others).

PROFESSOR NOBLE, AS JUDGE TOOMER, WELCOMING LAFAYETTE TO FAYETTEVILLE, IN FOURTH OF JULY PAGEANT

III. Red Cross Service in the Field and Camp Hospitals.

IV. Y. M. C. A. Service in the Field and Camps.

V. Civilian Service: (a) Distinguished service; (b) Industrial service; (c) Miscellaneous civilian service. 1. Civilian instruction in Aviation Ground Schools, Camps and Cantonments, and administrative work in connection with the same. 2. Organization of campaigns and committees for raising funds for Liberty Loans, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., War Chests, etc., and special service along these lines. 3. Organization of Food Conservation work. 4. Organization of Red Cross work. 5. Members of Speakers Bureau for Patriotic Education Campaign, Liberty Loans, Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., Food Conservation, etc. 6. Any other war work that has been of aid to the Government in winning the war.

LT. COL. SHEEP ORGANIZES BASE HOSPITAL NO. 54

Lt. Col. Wm. L. Sheep, M. C. N. A., who has been Comanding Officer, Base Hospital, Camp Greene, Charlotte, N. C., since the opening of the camp in 1917, has been assigned to duty as Commanding Officer Overseas, Base Hospital Unit No. 54, which he is now organizing at Camp Greene Base Hospital. To say that Colonel Sheep, a North Carolinian and an alumnus of the University of North Carolina, has greatly endeared himself to the numerous doctors who have served under him during the almost one year of his residence at the Camp here, inadequately expresses the respect and esteem so strongly cherished for him. Not only is this the universal sentiment of the official staff, but citizens of Charlotte who have had the pleasure of his acquaintance appreciate the Colonel as one of the finest medical gentlemen it has been our pleasure to know in many a day. Overseas, or where he may go, he will carry with him the kindly recollection of many sincere friends who wish for him every success and honor attainable by a doctor in the army possessed of great medical ability, administrative efficiency of the highest order, and with it all, and best of all, the splendid capacity of bearing himself under any and every circumstance as well becomes a gentleman of the finest character.—Charlotte Medical Journal, June, 1918.

AROUND CAMPUS AND TOWN

The new Engineering building is getting well under way. The brickwork is well above the first floor, a great deal of the material for its completion is assembled, and the work is being pushed with vigor.

The library of the department of Chemistry has been moved during the summer to a room on the west side on the second floor at the head of the stairs. New shelving has been installed and the 800 or 900 volumes secured through the purchase of the Herty Collection have been catalogued and embodied in the library.

The shelf capacity of the library of the School of Medicine has been increased during the vacation so that the medical books formerly kept in the main library could be transferred to the Medical building. The Bahnsen Collection has also been added to the library.

A thorough-going rearrangement of Swain Hall has recently been perfected by means of which 900 students can be accommodated. It is being used as the mess hall of the S. A. T. C.

Progress on the new Presbyterian church and postoffice buildings has been slow. Neither building is above the first floor at present.

THE UNIVERSITY IN LETTERS

Throughout the summer vacation the University faculty maintained its record as a productive body in the field of language, literature, history, and science through the issue of a number of interesting special publications.

An important work in history is the volume of The Papers of Thomas Ruffin, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, 1833-1852, compiled and edited by Dr. J. G. deR. Hamilton, Alumni Professor of History, and published by the North Carolina Historical Commission. The volume is the first of a set of four, and contains the letters to and from Judge Ruffin from 1803-1830. It also contains the Memorial Oration on the Life and Character of Chief Justice Ruffin, by William A. Graham, delivered in Raleigh at the State Fair in 1870, and a sketch of him by Assistant Attorney General Francis Nash, of Hillsboro, originally published in the Charlotte Observer. One volume is compiled from the Ruffin Collection owned by Bennahan Cameron, of Stagville, and the Roulhae Collection in the possession of Dr. Hamilton, a total of 10,000 in all. The remaining volumes are now in preparation for the press.

Dr. William Dey, of the department of Romance Languages, is the editor of Adolphe, by Benjamin Constant, published by the Oxford University Press, New York. The volume is intended for use by students in French in American colleges and universities, and in addition to critical notes and special vocabulary, contains an extended introduction and critical estimate of Constant by Dr. Dey.

In 1917-18 the Division for Women of the Bureau of Extension of the University prepared an outline study for the literary and historical departments of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs and directed the work of more than 425 members. In continuation of this service, Mrs. Thomas W. Lingle, former president of the Federation and in charge of this division of the bureau, has prepared sixteen studies on the world war for the use of the clubs in 1918-19. The outline comprises twenty-seven pages, suggests topics for papers throughout the year, and indicates books and referenees, which may be borrowed from the University Library by club members enrolled in the course.

Drs. Norman Foerster and J. M. Steadman, both of the department of English, are the authors of a guide to students and writers in English composition. Correct sentence structure, paragraph building, punctuation, and other subjects important in the proper foundation for effective composition are included in the text. The publication is issued by the Seeman Printery of Durham.

The July numbers of Studies in Philology and the Journal of the Elisha Mitchell Scientific Society have been received and mailed. The number of the Studies is devoted to a critical study by Drs. J. H. Hanford and J. M. Steadman, of the English department, of Death and Life, an important alliterative poem in Middle English. The Journal is devoted to an exhaustive treatise on the Lactarias (mushrooms) of North Carolina, by Dr. W. C. Coker, Professor of Botany. There are sixty-four pages of text, and forty splendid plates in the number.

In addition to these publications, the University is the author of an attractive, illustrated booklet of thirty-six pages, entitled "About the University of North Carolina." It contains nine half-tone plates, and gives a condensed summary of the history, work and equipment of the University.

UNIVERSITY EXTENSION WORK IN THE SOUTH

The conspicuously excellent work of the Bureau of Extension of the University of North Carolina is the subject of a bulletin issued by the United States Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education, Washington, and written by Louis Round Wilson and Lester Alonzo Williams. In his letter transmitting the bulletin to the Secretary of the Interior, P. P. Claxton, Commissioner of Education, says:

"For five years this office has watched with increasing interest the development of the extension work of the University of North Carolina, some of which though as yet peculiar to this State, is, with necessary adaptations to the varying conditions in other States, capable of general adoption. Because of the importance of some of the phases of this work I have induced the president of the University to have prepared the account which is herewith transmitted for publication as a bulletin of the Bureau of Education."

It is exceedingly gratifying to read this bulletin and to note the success which has attended the extension work of the University. Especially satisfactory is it that a Southern institution should take rank nationally as a leader in the spread of intelligence among the people, increasing their fund of general knowledge and making them better and more valuable citizens not only to their respective communities but to their country.—Manufacturers' Record, July 25.

The volume comprises 508 pages and sixty-six steel engravings.

DAVID S. GRAHAM, '01

—Killed in France June 6. His home was in Charlotte, but he was located in Montgomery, Alabama, before entering the service. When the first American marines went to France in early June, 1917, he was asked to stay at his local post for a special service with immediate and successive military promotions as an inducement. He scorned the place of safety urged upon him. When the marines made their thrilling dash to meet the German drive for Paris northwest of Chateau Thierry, he was one of that band, who, cut to pieces, pressed on to victory.

QUINCEY SHARPE MILLS, '07

—Killed in action in France. Reported in the casualty list of July 26 as missing, but report later corrected. Was a member of Company G, 168th Infantry. Held the rank of Lieutenant. He was a reporter for the New York Evening Sun before entering the service. His home was originally in Statesville, but he was living with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. M. Mills, 190 Wadsworth Ave., N. Y. He was 34 years old. He was The Evening Sun's representative at the City Hall for some years, in the course of which time he won the friendship of many men of local, state, and national reputation, Colonel Roosevelt and Mayor Mitchell being his warm personal friends.

DONALD F. RAY, '09

—Died from sunstroke at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, July 6. Held the rank of Captain. Gave up a place in one of the State's leading law firms to enter the first officers' training camp at Fort Oglethorpe. ## MAKE THE YALE IDEA YOURS

- At the beginning of 1917, the Yale University needed $125,000 for a completely equipped artillery plant. It also faced a deficit of $125,000 due to loss of fees and tuition—a good round Quarter of a Million in all.
- THE ANSWER—The Yale Alumni Loyalty Fund Directors underwrote the proposition. At Commencement they showed receipts from alumni for $500,000, all obligations met, and a cool $250,000 surplus to start 1918 with.
- During the summer a Yale alumnus died and left Yale $20,000,000—the largest bequest ever left an American University.
- A Carolina Sophomore on leaving for France, wrote President Graham that he was making over $5,000 of his insurance policy to the Loyalty Fund. Among other things he said “everything I am, I owe to the University, and I am happy to do this little bit in return.” In July Dr. Holland Thompson, of the class of 1895, came by to look in on the University. On leaving he gave the Treasurer a fifty dollar Liberty Bond for the Fund.
- WHY should not every loyal alumnus on the firing line of life make a bequest to the Loyalty Fund? He withdraws nothing from use; he is enabled to give back to the institution and to society a part of the talents given to him; it makes him a permanent partner in youth and progress.
- YOU THINK YOU WILL NEVER DIE.
 Perhaps not. But be on the safe side, and say what you want done with what you leave. Write your will now; don't wait till you've got your million. Put the Alumni Loyalty Fund in for from $100 to $100,000. A holograph will is enough. It is as easy as this: “I hereby give and bequeath to the Alumni Loyalty Fund of the University of North Carolina the sum of ..... dollars.”

SUMMER SCHOOL HAS SUCCESSFUL SESSION

The thirty-first session of the University Summer School, June 11th to July 26th, was attended by 618 students, representing 87 North Carolina counties. While the attendance was less than that of previous years, the spirit of the student body was unusually fine, and the grade of work was exceptionally good.

The faculty, not including the director and office force, was composed of 56 members who offered 113 courses of instruction in 23 different subjects. Possibly the most interesting feature of the many forms of entertainment provided for the members of the school was the celebration of the Fourth of July. A patriotic celebration, in which the Orange County Council of Defense co-operated, was held in Memorial Hall on the morning of the Fourth. In the afternoon the County Council of Defense held a special meeting, and at 4:00 o'clock a splendidly conceived historic pageant illustrating the friendship of America and France was given on the stage in Battle's Park. One of the largest crowds ever seen on the University campus was present, the presentation being under the direction of Professor A. Vermont.

Other interesting features of the school were the music festival on July 10th and 11th under the direction of Professor Gustave Hagedorn; a series of lectures by Dean Thomas Bailliet on Citizenship in the High Schools; by Dr. Edwin Greenlaw on Prophets of the New Democracy; by Dr. Edwin Mims on Literature as a National Asset; and by Professor Collier Cobb on France and Latin America.
